

The Sloan Industry Centers apply a broad multidisciplinary approach to industry investigations and findings. Center researchers are drawn from a variety of academic disciplines and corporate functions, and contribute to fostering a comprehensive view of the industries under study. The Centers are able to maximize the intellectual resources they make available to their industry partners through their cooperation with colleagues in relevant schools and departments, including top business schools, as well as the senior managers who contribute to their team efforts.

What follows are highlights of Center work with industry partners and contact information. Business leaders who would like to participate in Center activities, help shape an investigation of special interest and use, or simply receive more information and background are encouraged to contact individual Centers or the Sloan Foundation. Your inquiries are welcome.

